CHARACTER APPEARANCE

ALLIES & ORGANIZATIONS

HONEST AND DIRECT – Integrity is the heart of everything I do. Emotional manipulation, mind games and reassuring lies all run counter to my preference for managing the reality of the situations I encounter with plain and simple honesty.

STRONG WILLED AND DUTIFUL – I embody that integrity in my actions too, working hard and staying focused on my goals. Patient and determined, I meet my obligations, period.

PERSONALITY TRAITS

A LIFE OF INTEGRITY - For me, a lack of structure offers not freedom, but chaos. The core of my self-respect comes from a sense of personal integrity. I believe that there is a right way to proceed in any situation – and that anyone who pretends otherwise is probably trying to bend the rules to suit their own purposes. I have a deep respect for structure and tradition, and I am often drawn to organizations, workplaces, and educational settings that offer clear hierarchies and expectations.

IDEALS

My honor is my life.

BONDS

STUBBORN – The facts are the facts, and I tend to resist any new idea that isn't supported by me. This factual decision-making process also makes it difficult for me to accept that I was wrong about something – but anyone can miss a detail, even me.

FLAWS

In the rugged realms where honor and discipline reign supreme I am a paragon of integrity and duty. Trained in the Way of the Kensei, my journey began on the battlefield as a scout in the military, where my skills and sense of duty were forged through the crucible of conflict.

During my time as a soldier, I rose to the rank of sergeant, recognized for my exceptional abilities as a scout and my unwavering commitment to my comrades. A trophy from a hard-fought battle adorns my possession – the flag, given to me by my commander, of an enemy standard we defeated in the heat of war. This trophy serves as a testament to my scouting prowess and my dedication to the principles of my martial training. It was through my careful scouting that we found the enemy waiting in ambush for us. Finding a way to flank them and surprise them, I was instrumental in their defeat.

Since my scout days, I have mastered techniques to exploit every drop in an enemy's guard. My chosen monk weapon, a shortsword, becomes an extension of my disciplined movements and focused mind. Yet, beyond the battlefield, I find solace in moments of quiet reflection and strategic contemplation, often passing the time playing solitaire with a deck of cards.

My military rank carries weight, even in the realms beyond the battlefield. Soldiers loyal to my former organization recognize my authority, and those of lower rank defer to me. I can invoke my rank to exert influence over other soldiers, requisition simple equipment or horses for temporary use, and gain access to friendly military encampments and fortresses where my authority is acknowledged.

Honesty and directness define my interactions. Emotional manipulation and mind games find no place in my approach to managing situations; I value the clarity that plain and simple honesty

CHARACTER BACKSTORY

Torm

Alignment: Lawful Good
Alternate Names: The Loyal Fury, The True, The Hand of Righteousness
Category: None
Domains: War
Pantheon: Faerûnian
Symbol: White right gauntlet

Torm is the god of duty and loyalty, revered by those who face danger to bring about a greater good. Those who favor Torm believe that one's salvation can be found through service, that every failure to perform one's duty diminishes Torm, and that every success adds to his luster. Those who take Torm to heart must strive to fulfill his commandment to go out into the world and be an active force for good, to right wrongs, and to help the hopeless. They must strive to maintain peace and order while opposing unjust laws. Followers of Torm stand ever alert against corruption and are expected to strike quickly and hard against any evidence of rot in the hearts of mortals. As the sword arm of justice, Torm's faithful are expected to bring quick deaths to betrayers. Considering these tenets, it should be no surprise that most human paladins have Torm as their patron.

Most temples dedicated to Torm are fortresses built on heights. These structures offer austere quarters for residents and visiting knights, drilling grounds, and stables. White granite, lion statues, and armored figures predominate in the architecture, with the coats of arms of fallen heroes decorating the walls of the great halls.

Torm is seen as the good right hand of Tyr, and as such his symbol is a white gauntlet made for the right hand. It represents Tyr's sword hand, but it is also a symbol of forbearance. Torm is frequently depicted with his right gauntlet extended palm forward, which worshipers call the Hand Resolute. It signifies the principle that the just and true must pause before acting to judge whether their intentions uphold Torm's ideals. Temples, civic structures, and the homes of the faithful are often decorated with images of the Hand Resolute as a constant reminder of this principle.

Worshipers of Torm come from most walks of life, for he welcomes any who seek the best in themselves and others, who uphold his tenets of loyalty, responsibility, duty, and kindness, or who are willing to sacrifice to keep evil from gaining ascendancy in the world. The faithful know that all of them will stumble from time to time while following in Torm's footsteps, but Torm's priests teach that the shame of a minor fall from grace is far less severe than declining to rise oneself up to Torm's standards.
