Bardic Inspiration • 3 / Long Rest
As a Bonus Action, you can inspire another creature within 60 ft. that can see or hear you. That creature gains one of your Bardic Inspiration dice (1d6). Once within the next hour, when the creature fails a D20 Test, the creature can roll the Bardic Inspiration die and add the number rolled to the total, potentially turning the failure into a success.

You can confer your Bardic Inspiration die 3 times per Long Rest.

CHARACTER APPEARANCE

ALLIES & ORGANIZATIONS

SENSITIVE AND WARM – Helping to ensure stability, I seek harmony and care deeply about other people's feelings, being careful not to offend or hurt anybody. I am a strong team player, and win-win situations are the stuff smiles are made of.

GOOD AT CONNECTING WITH OTHERS – These qualities come together to make me social, comfortable and well-liked. I have a strong need to "belong", and have no problem with small talk or following social cues in order to help me take an active role in my community.

PERSONALITY TRAITS

BUILDING RELATIONSHIPS THAT LAST
I rarely miss a birthday or holiday. Devoted to my relationships, I commit even the smallest details of my friends' and loved ones' lives to memory. But make no mistake, I don't just breeze through other people's lives. Loyal to the core, I build lasting relationships, and I can be counted on to show up whenever a helping hand, or a listening ear, is needed.

IDEALS

My instrument is my most treasured possession, and it reminds me of someone I love.

BONDS

OFTEN TOO NEEDY – I need to hear and see a great deal of appreciation. If my efforts go unnoticed, I may start fishing for compliments, in an attempt to get reassurance of how much I am valued.

FLAWS

In the realm of melodies and tales, I graced the world with my enchanting performances. My charisma and warmth echoed in every note I played on my cherished lute. Born into the world of entertainers, I embraced the life of a storyteller, instrumentalist, and poet, captivating audiences across taverns, theaters, and noble courts.

My lute, my most treasured possession, held memories of someone I loved dearly. Its strings resonated with the laughter and shared moments, a constant reminder of the connections that wove the tapestry of my life. Every chord I played was an homage to the emotions shared with that special someone, someone whose life was taken too early by nomadic criminals and thugs whose mission was to torment the innocent and the weak. I will never be weak again.

My profession as an entertainer granted me a nomadic lifestyle, seeking stages in inns, taverns, circuses, and theaters. The gift of my performances earned me free lodging and modest or comfortable food, depending on the establishment. Wherever I performed, I became a local figure, greeted with warmth and camaraderie. My three defining routines—Storyteller, Instrumentalist, and Poet—showcased my versatility and skill in captivating diverse audiences.

I naturally exhibit a sensitive and warm nature. I sought harmony, caring deeply about the feelings of those around me. A strong team player, I thrived in win-win situations that brought smiles to everyone involved. My natural ability to connect with others made me a social butterfly, effortlessly navigating social cues and small talk to play an active role in my community.

However, my need for appreciation occasionally revealed a vulnerable side. If my efforts went unnoticed, I might fish for compliments, seeking reassurance of my value. Despite this, my loyalty

CHARACTER BACKSTORY

Sune

Alignment: Chaotic Good
Alternate Names: Lady Firehair, The Lady of Love, The Princess of Passion
Category: None
Domains: Life, Light
Pantheon: Faerûnian
Symbol: Face of a beautiful red-haired woman

Sune Firehair is a deity of passion and the delights of the senses. She is the goddess of beauty in all its forms - not just pleasing sights, but also enchanting sounds, luxurious tastes and scents, and the exquisite pleasures of the flesh, from a lover's caress to the brush of silk on the skin. Her worshipers seek out these pleasures in life, not out of mere decadence, but because the experience of pleasure is the touch of Sune herself.

The followers of Sune have a reputation as hedonists, and so they are, to a degree. More than that, her priests foster beauty in the world. They do so by creating art, by acting as patrons for promising talents, and by investing in merchants who bring luxuries to far-off places that have never seen satin or tasted a luscious wine.

Her priests consider loveliness to be one of their greatest callings, and all are trained in comportment, fashion, and cosmetics. Indeed, so talented are Sune's priests in the creation of beautiful appearances that many take pride in their ability to present themselves as stunningly attractive examples of either gender.

But beauty is more than skin deep, say the Sunites; it issues from the core of one's being and shows one's true face to the world, whether fair or foul. The followers of Sune are believers in romance, true love winning over all, and following one's heart to one's true destination. Fated matches, impossible loves, and ugly ducklings becoming swans are all in the purview of Sune.

Temples dedicated to Sune are common in human lands, and they frequently serve as public baths and places of relaxation. A temple usually features a mirrored and well-lit salon where folks can primp, as well as see others and be seen. Where a temple doesn't exist, or in a large city where the nearest temple might be too far to walk to, a small shrine to Sune often stands near a street corner. These sites consist of a mirror hung beneath a small roof where one can say a prayer while checking one's appearance. The spot might feature a shelf or a cupboard holding various perfumes and cosmetics so that those without the funds to purchase such items can still make themselves feel beautiful.
