CHARACTER APPEARANCE

=== Organizations ===

The Vigilant Order of the Silver Gauntlet (Amn): This order serves Helm, the god of watchfulness and protection, and is dedicated to guarding the innocent and vigilant protection of the weak and helpless. A War cleric of this order would be a stout defender, prioritizing the safety of others and standing as a bulwark against danger.

ALLIES & ORGANIZATIONS

Principle – Advocates tend to have strong beliefs and values, particularly when it comes to religion or ethics. Often characters fall above injury stress a bit or more. Their conviction and heartfelt belief can inspire and persuade even the scarriest strangers.

Ideals – Heroes will find personally good things to counter or another person's purpose. Advocates seem to use Nice strength for the greater good, and they enjoy the sight of the true world and a better, high-ethic ethics. A Hero doesn't mean, they, want to make the world a better place, starting with the people around them.

PERSONALITY TRAITS

P SEEKING PURPOSE - I see helping others as my mission in life, and I am always looking for ways to step in and

IDEALS

I fight for those who cannot fight for themselves.

BONDS

Prone to Burnout – Advocates' perfectionism and reserve leave them with few options for letting off steam.

FLAWS

I still remember the day I made the choice. It was the day I lost them—my siblings, my closest companions in this world. We had grown up together, training in the ways of the sword, learning the call of duty, always there for each other. They were the first ones to wear the silver sigil of the city guard, standing proud and strong, protecting the walls of our home. But when the barbarian hordes descended, their lives were snuffed out in an instant. It wasn't the bloodshed that broke me. It was the helplessness. The feeling that I could've done more, that I wasn't there when they needed me most.

The city, once peaceful and full of life, had fallen into chaos. The walls were breached, and the cries of the innocent echoed in the streets. I stood there, watching as my siblings fell, and something inside me hardened. From that moment on, I knew my life had a new purpose. I wasn't just a warrior or a knight—I was a defender, a shield for those who couldn't defend themselves. And I would never let another person feel the weight of helplessness that I felt that day.

The Order of the Silver Gauntlet became my refuge. I sought them out with determination, pledging myself to their cause with the conviction of a soul lost and found. Their ideals spoke to me deeply. They were an Order dedicated to a single, unyielding truth: Protect the innocent. Stand between them and the storm. To be a knight of the Silver Gauntlet was to bear the weight of the world on your shoulders and stand firm against its crushing force. And I embraced it, not out of a desire for glory, but for the need to make the world safer, one battle at a time.

In battle, I don't fight for victory or honor—I fight for those who can't stand up for themselves. My faith in the divine strengthens my resolve, making me a force not just of strength, but of purpose. I wield my power on the battlefield, not to slay, but to protect. To shield the weak. To be a guiding
